

The national average price of bread according to the latest issue of the U. S. available supply for January 15 was approximately 10 cents; at that time Houston was reported the lowest point with a average price of 4.8 cents and Seattle was the highest with 8 cents. Corsicana maintained an average about half of Houston and at times lower.

The bakers pointed to figures compiled recently by the Department of Labor showing that the average cost of a loaf of bread was 2 cents if the item of flour could be eliminated.

Out-of-town bakers sending supplies to Corsicana are expected to follow the advance in prices immediately.

Sutter came back with Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers as his partner and played an important role in winning the doubles crown from the "upset" team of the tournament, Dr. Lawrence Kurzok and John H. # WINTER TRADES INSTIL NEW LIFE IN CHICAGO WHITE SOX FOR APPROACHING CAMPAIGN

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
PASADENA, Calif., March 20.

The winter trade winds have breathed new life into the Chicago White Sox.

Manager Lew Fonseca, classes the present Comiskey clan as the strongest aggregation to don the pale hose since the Sox made their last appearance in the first division of the American league race in 1920.

The addition of Al Simmons, George (Mule) Haas and Jimmy Dykes, all former members of the world's championship Philadelphia Athletics, undoubtedly has strengthened the club along with several other acquisitions at the baseball mart.

What the club seems to lack most is sufficient reserve power, especially in the infield and on the pitching staff. Should this prove adequate, then the White Sox's first division dream may come true.

Outfield Is Strong.

The outfield holds forth as the strongest link in the Chicago club, made so by the signing power, with the arrival of Simmons and Haas. Ralph Kress, who moved in from St. Louis late in the 1932 campaign, while an infielder by choice, is expected to complete the outer guard.

Fonseca is returning to active play in an effort to strengthen the infield. A long winter condition has kept him down to the 185 pounds he carried as the leading hitter of the league four seasons ago, making him once again an active first baseman. Dykes, of course, will patrol third with his usual enthusiasm.

Present plans call for Luke Appling at shortstop and Minter Hayes at second, but Hal Rhine constitutes the sole reservist unless Kress is pulled in from the outfield or Bill Sullivan, who joins the club in June, is shifted from proposed catching assignments.

In Charles Berry and Frank Grube, veteran catchers, the Sox have plenty of strength, both offensively and offensively, behind the plate.

Their veteran advice will be necessary to help steady the pitching staff, although Fonseca considered it more than strengthened over last season. Two hurlers on whom he is depending for much assistance are Ted Lyons and Vic Frazier, both of whom were ailing last year.

TEAMS OF TEXAS LEAGUE TO START WORK THIS WEEK

FULL TEAM MONDAY

By BILL PARKER

DALLAS, March 20.—(P)—Texas

League teams will start the serious business of getting in condition for this year's pennant race this week. No longer will the holdouts be considered a mild situation. The boys will be pre-valued on to sign quickly. The San Antonio missions opened training with full force today under the guidance of Manager Henry Severel. Several of the battery men had been working out.

Tulsa and Oklahoma City, the two new league members, started serious practice on their home lots.

The Fort Worth Cats left their Mineral Wells training site long enough yesterday to invade Fort Worth and take a 25 to 2 practice game from a local amateur team. Dallas Moses was the hero of the Fort Worth Camp. He hit three doubles.

Galveston had an intracub game scheduled yesterday but wet grounds forced cancellation. Another intracub game was scheduled. Keith Molesworth, shortstop, Hank Thomsen, pitcher, and Bill Dunlap, outfielder, were the only Galveston regulars not in camp.

With Zeke Bonura, Giant first sacker, on holdout, the Dallas Steers returned to their two-day practice sessions after an intracub game that ended 12-all. Lou Brower, regular shortstop, was the hitting star, with 5 safe singles in 6 trips.

The Beaumont Exporters ended their series against the Detroit Tigers.

While a number of intracub games will be played this week, the most interesting exhibitions will be next Saturday and Sunday when the Detroit Tigers play the Houston Buffaloes at Houston. Manager Carey Selph reports his Houston players fast rounding in to condition and expects to give the Tigers a real battle.

MAN OF ACTION

Nothing like that which happened in Washington in the last two weeks has ever been seen in this country. We were faced with a grave and paralyzing economic condition. Doubt, hesitancy and fear were the watch-words of the hour. The great leaders who had been regarded as omnipotent had thrown up their hands in frank inability to cope with the situation. There was no confidence, no feeling of trust.

Into that breach stepped a man of action. Exactly as he had promised the people of this country Mr. Roosevelt presented to the extraordinary session of congress a program designed to relieve the banking situation. Within a few hours it had been passed through both houses and signed. His pledge of action had been redeemed in as short a space of time as was physically possible.

We are not prepared to debate at the present time that his program is perfect—although he put his finger on the very root of the evil when he ordered the issuance of more currency. We have been trying to do business on a deflated and a decreased currency which is as foolish and impossible as trying to make water run uphill. But aside from the new blood that the new currency will supply to enrich the business, there is another, a more important factor. This is psychological. The promptness of the president to act has infused a new spirit in America that will be plainly discernible today.

GOLD

North Carolina provided the first gold deposits worked commercially in the United States, the first shipment sent to the mint for coinage being taken from the field in 1804. Gold was mined in that state and in South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Maryland during the next 30 years, mints at Charlotte, N. C., and Dahlonega, Ga., converting the precious metal into more precious coins.

Richer finds of gold in California in 1849 put the Southern Appalachian fields out of business, releasing their miners for the gold rush westward. The great gold fields in Colorado were discovered by a party of prospectors trained in the old mines in the South.

Though the Southern gold fields have been neglected for a hundred years they are not forgotten. In fact, they have just taken on a new importance due to unemployment in that region and to the higher comparative value of gold.

Jobless men are again digging and "washing" in the mountains of Kentucky, Georgia and the Carolinas, spurred on by the belief that the real lodes there have never been discovered. Each prospector hopes to some day strike a bonanza and though the chances of success may be few they probably exist.

Discovery of gold in paying quantities so near the great Eastern centers of population would probably precipitate the greatest gold rush the world has ever known.

The financial jig saw puzzle is almost together, which accounts for the wild scramble among the bears to get on board the prosperity ship.

Maturity is that blessed state in which you can feel respectable without trying to seem tough.

THE BLUE SPRUCE
That Colorado spruce you see,
Well, he's a friend o' mine,
For he's been growing old with me
These last eight years or nine.
And every spring for my delight
He dons a silver dress
And seems to add unto his height
A foot or slightly less.

Some call him Colorado Blue,
With that I quarrel not,
I only know what'er his hue
I like his ways a lot.
Sturdy and straight and tall he stands
Against what winds may blow,
And sometimes holds his arms and hands
To catch the falling snow.

When our acquaintance first began
I'm sure he looked at me
And wondered if I were a man
Who could befriend a tree.
But as the weeks and months slipped by
Such doubting was destroyed,
And under clear or stormy sky
Each other we've enjoyed.

I never walk about the place
But what I stop to chat,
Sometimes I tell him to his face,
"Old boy, you're getting fat!"
And sometimes in his friendly way,
The spruce looks down on me,
"You're not as slim," he seems to say,
"As once you used to be."

CONQUERING THE EMERGENCY

President Roosevelt lost no time in taking steps aimed at relieving the banking situation which developed into a crisis on the eve of his inauguration. In both the temporary measures adopted and in calling congress to meet to consider a program for overcoming the emergency, Mr. Roosevelt acted with intelligence and zeal.

He showed by the promptness of his action and his willingness to cut red tape in dealing with an emergency decisive and courageous leadership.

He recognized the immediate need of devising means to permit the transaction of business while a permanent relief program was being worked out.

With the President, congressional leaders and the nation's financial experts uniting in an effort to find the safest and quickest way out of the present situation, the country has reason to feel confident of the outcome of these efforts. Whether the country is on or off the gold standard is a technical question that can be left to the experts to decide.

The people have shown by the calmness with which they have met the situation that they have faith in the underlying soundness of conditions. This attitude denotes a confidence in their public officials that must prove inspiring to the latter.

There is every hope and promise that this confidence will be justified. The process of correcting the situation was greatly helped by the public's maintaining a cheerful disposition and easing, with a sense of humor, immediate inconveniences and annoyances. The good humor with which the people met their difficulties is a credit to their sound sense. In Corsicana and other communities throughout the nation this was a conspicuous feature of the emergency. That this will prove an important factor in the final solution of the problem none can doubt.

CATASTROPHE

The speed with which relief was provided for stricken Southern California despite the financial paralysis that had the nation in its grip when the earthquake struck, is magnificent evidence that the American people are ready to cope with any situation.

No greater disaster can befall any community than an earthquake. Death and destruction thrive on it as on no other disaster, not excepting war. One moment a city is serene, its people happy and going about their usual tasks. The next there is horror unimaginable to those who have never experienced it.

All observations go to prove that earthquakes, like volcanic eruptions, are due to disruptions produced by internal heat at a great depth below the surface of the earth. The motion of earthquakes occurs in very different ways, having sometimes a perpendicular, sometimes a horizontally undulat-

LOBBYING AS A MENACE

Representative Royal Johnson, of South Dakota, having retired voluntarily after serving 18 years in the lower house of congress, believes that "if the present excessive cost of government is to be reduced those citizens who do not want special privileges or appropriations must organize politically."

This sound advice was given in an article by Mr. Johnson appearing in National Business, in which the North Dakotan discussed lobbying as a national menace. Mr. Johnson's observations are of interest because of the important position lobbying has come to play in national legislation. Lobbying, he said, "has developed from individual effort to mass propaganda, and from legislative education to congressional intimidation."

Activities of the Anti-Saloon league were cited as an example, in the organization's earlier effort, of lobbying by "mass education." And "so long as it devoted its time and attention to mass education it was successful," he said.

There is no doubt that lobbying—the efforts of groups to influence legislation by various means—has reached proportions which demand serious attention. Frequently it results in defeat of the will of the majority. Where to find a cure for this situation is a question hard to answer. It is not easy for a congressman, desiring re-election, to reject the pleas of groups that represent large numbers of voters.

The present high cost of government undoubtedly is due, in a large measure, to lobbying activities. The remedy suggested by Mr. Johnson has virtue, but it would not prove an easy matter to organize into a political group all citizens opposed to special privileges.

"RECIPROCAL" TRADE

After a year or less of reciprocal tariffs and trade restrictions Washington and Ottawa have decided they prefer reciprocal trade, and London stands on the sidelines and cheers although it is chiefly responsible for the Canadian ban on U. S. goods.

Both governments believe a reciprocal trade arrangement would have a most beneficial effect on trade conditions throughout the world generally, but more particularly between the United States and Canada. It is difficult to see how this would be brought about.

The dominion wants to sell her surplus farm products to the United States, but Uncle Sam has a surplus of the same products. The United States seeks an outlet for her manufactures but Canada wants to build up her own factories. There is much we could sell the Canadians without hurting their own producers and labor but there is little Canada can sell us without competing with Americans.

Reciprocity with Canada can be had at this time only at the expense of the American farmer, there being little present demand for Canadian newspaper, lumber and other timber products, or for minerals from the Canadian Northwest. Even the fur and fish businesses can expect little help from below the international line. Obviously there is nothing Washington and Ottawa can do to restore the border business to its old robust self. When business booms again there will be no quarrel between these two old friends of the North American continent over trade barriers.

IT WAS EVER THUS

Since the war the literary market place has swarmed with prophecies of doom. At every turn there is some modern Jeremiah telling the world how civilization is crumbling. Pollyanna is in eclipse.

The doomsday boys are always with us. While the world was fighting the world war there were those who saw in that terrible conflict the destruction of human culture and the end of civilization. Reversion of the human race to savagery was even held up as a possible result of the war.

Cessation of hostilities was followed by a world economic collapse and the dismal verdict that the capitalist system and the machine had failed. Then the United States was thrust into an era of unprecedented prosperity and the moralists shuddered at the demoralizing effect too much money and too many of the material things of life were having upon young Americans.

After that, the deluge of depression. And again an old familiar menace under a new name—technocracy. Now it is the high standard of living that is lost for all time, and a wave of immorality due to too little money and too few of the material things of life.

When will these viewers-with-alarm view with pleasure? A scientist foresees sunshine condensed and sold in bottles. Why not? Moonshine comes that way.

Tough women are no more numerous than they used to be. They are merely allowed in public more.

DRIVERS LICENSE LAW PASSED FRIDAY BY TEXAS SENATE

AUSTIN, March 17.—(AP)—The Texas senate today passed a bill by Senator W. R. Poage of Waco to provide for the licensing of all automobile drivers.

All except two of the senators present voted for the bill. It was approved after only a few minutes of discussion. The bill originally provided that no person under 15 years of age could be a licensed motorist. An amendment was adopted to lower the minimum age limit to 12 years.

The licenses would not cost anything. They could be suspended or revoked for driving while drunk, reckless driving, negligent homicide and similar offenses.

The senate also passed a bill to permit a reduction of the state's royalty from oil wells in the state of Texas. The proposal lacked one vote to receive a majority sufficient to put it into immediate effect.

Senator Walter Wood of Houston, author of the Sabine river bill, asserted that the bill was intended to keep the operators from violating prohibition. He stated that due to the existing low price of oil, operators might open up their wells in order to keep paying the state its three-eighths royalty and to make fair returns on their investments.

The bill would permit the state to reduce the royalty from three-eighths to one-fourth.

FARM ORGANIZATIONS JOIN IN DEMAND FOR PASSAGE OF RELIEF*DELAY WOULD BE FATAL SAYS STATEMENT ISSUED BY SEVEN BODIES

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—Seven farm organizations joined today in a statement demanding immediate enactment of the president's farm aid program and warning congress "delay will be fatal."

It was issued as the house and senate agriculture committees studied the broad relief measure proposed by President Roosevelt. Both hoped to have the bill before their respective houses by the middle of next week at the latest.

The brief statement, addressed to the two committees, said: "The administration's farm bill pending before your committee today is in accord with policies advocated by farm organizations for several years and agrees with the outline of principles for surplus control and establishment of parity between agricultural and industrial prices as agreed upon last Friday by representatives of farm groups."

"We trust your committee will report this bill promptly and then urge congress to enact it immediately in order that its provisions may be applicable to crops that are now ready for planting."

"Delay will be fatal." The organizations that joined in the statement, prepared after a morning meeting, were: The American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, the American Cotton Co-operative Association, the National Livestock Marketing Association, and the National committee of farm organizations.

It was made public by W. R. Ronald, editor of the Mitchell (S. D.) Republican.

Poll of Farmers Is Held in Six States

KANSAS CITY, March 17.—(AP)—The Kansas City Chamber of Commerce announced today that its poll of individual farmers in every county of six agricultural states showed decided sentiment against the domestic allotment plan or government attempts to control prices or production, but overwhelming demand for federal aid in refinancing mortgages.

The survey, a heavy vote against continuing the present agricultural marketing act and the activities of the federal farm board.

The questionnaire used in the survey and the results: "Do you believe the agricultural marketing act and the activities of the federal farm board should be continued?"

The vote: No—4,654; Yes—1,274. "Do you favor a domestic allotment plan?"

The vote: No—3,708; Yes—2,109. "Do you favor the federal government attempting to control prices or production through stabilization, allotments or other schemes to direct price movement against natural influences?"

The vote: No—2,837; Yes—2,066. "Do you favor the federal government coming to the aid of farmers in refinancing mortgage and other indebtedness at lower interest rates with extended maturities?"

The vote: Yes—5,441; No—715. The survey was conducted in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas. W. A. Cochrane, chairman of the agricultural committee, and editor of the weekly Kansas City Star, said "every possible effort was made to obtain a fair expression from any organized or unorganized influence."

Quake Relief Bill Passes

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—The California earthquake bill was passed by the house today 218 to 192 when it reversed its previous action to send the bill back to the appropriations committee. It now goes back to the senate for adjustment of differences.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—The senate agriculture committee decided today that the Roosevelt farm measure was a revenue bill and as such must originate in the house—negating the action of the senate action on the bill he withheld until it has been passed by the house.

DUN & BRADSTREET SAY OUTLOOK BETTER THAN SEVERAL YEARS

NEW YORK, March 17.—(AP)—Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., said today that there was "now more buoyancy to general commercial activity than has been in evidence in years."

Asserting that further progress was made this week toward restoring confidence "in all branches of business endeavor," the Mercantile Review added: "Taking the offensive through emphasis on expanded credit facilities and the determination of leaders of industry to carry on aggressively."

It is now apparent that the era of fear has passed definitely and with it that phase of commercial history which belittled responsibility and placed a premium on recklessness in business conduct.

Retail buying improved, the review said, and sales in some lines went ahead of seasonal, while others were a far better tone to buying interest in wholesale merchandise than was the case last week, and indications are favorable that the arrival of buyers next week will be the heaviest for the spring season.

Hamilton Trial Is Sent Hillsboro Jury

HILLSBORO, March 17.—(AP)—The case of Raymond Hamilton, accused of murder for the shooting of John Bucher in a holdup, was under consideration by a jury today.

Bucher was slain last April 30 by one of two young men who came to his combination filling station and store near Hillsboro to buy guitar strings.

Mrs. Bucher identified Hamilton as one of the men who came to the store and said the fatal shot was fired from where he had stood.

The defense built its case around an alibi to the effect that Hamilton was in Michigan the night of the shooting.

SEED DISTRIBUTION BY RED CROSS UNDER WAY FRIDAY MORNING*SIX HUNDRED COMPLETE SETS OF SEED AND OTHER PACKAGES DISTRIBUTED

COLORFUL CAREER OF CONE JOHNSON ENDED BY DEATH

GAINED NATIONAL FAME AS LEADER OF 'IMMORTAL FORTY' TEXAS DELEGATES

TYLER, March 18.—(AP)—Funeral services for Cone Johnson, 72, prominent political figure both in Texas and the nation, will be held at the Marvin Methodist church here at 3 p. m. tomorrow, with the Rev. S. S. McKenny in charge.

Johnson died last night after suffering for weeks from what his physician described as a general run down condition. He had rallied and lapsed into unconsciousness after and his death was not unexpected.

Johnson was recognized as a brilliant lawyer and orator. In 1912 he was appointed to the state highway commission. By Governor Dan Moody, in office then. His six-year term expired last February 15.

At the Baltimore democratic national convention of 1922, Johnson gained national note as leader of the "immortal forty" Texas delegates credited with swinging the presidential nomination to Woodrow Wilson.

For his part in this move he was appointed legal adviser to William Jennings Bryan, when the latter was secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet. He remained in 1917 and returned to his law practice at Tyler.

Funeral arrangements for Johnson were announced after the arrival of a brother, Dr. Clay Johnson, of Fort Worth, who started for Tyler immediately after being advised of the death.

Other survivors included his widow, sister Mrs. W. E. Matcett, of Dallas; and several nephews and nieces.

High tribute was paid to Johnson by W. R. Ely, chairman of the highway commission, who had been associated with him on that board for six years and had known him many more.

"For half a century he has been an outstanding figure as a statesman of Texas and the nation," Ely said. "He was a great lawyer and the state's most gifted orator. His name was a synonym for hard integrity. He was loved by people and was loved by all those who knew him."

Deeply Grieved

Deeply grieved by Johnson's death, Ely declared that "we shall miss his like again."

Johnson was born June 11, 1860, in Dawsonville, Ga., the son of Samuel and Emily Johnson. He attended Emory college at Oxford, Ga., in 1878. From there he went to Peabody Normal college at Nashville, Tenn., where he received his bachelor of arts degree in 1880.

He came to Tyler the same year. He taught for two years in East Texas university while reading law in the office of Col. W. B. Herndon. In 1883 he was admitted to the Texas bar at Tyler.

Quickly gaining recognition as an able attorney and speaker, he entered the political field. In 1888 he was elected to the Texas house of representatives, serving one term. Then he was elected to the state senate for the term 1888 to 1892.

In 1887 he became an anti-prohibition speaker after being drafted to this cause by the late Roger Q. Mills, United States senator. He entered several debates, including one with Joseph Weldon Bailey, the late United States senator, at Denton.

Later both men alter their positions on the issue. Johnson became a firm believer in prohibition and Bailey opposed it.

Johnson married Miss Sophie Robertson at Salado, Bell county, in 1889. She died several years ago. They had no children. He married Miss Ethel Hilton, former assistant to the attorney general of Texas, August 2, 1902, who was at his bedside when he passed away.

As a politician Johnson engaged in many bitter political campaigns and factional struggles. Years ago he had considerable strife with the faction of Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey and more recently, with former Governor James E. Ferguson, husband of the present Texas governor, Miriam A. Ferguson.

Ran For Governor

In 1910, Johnson ran unsuccessfully against O. B. Colquitt for governor. Two years later he was elected delegate at large to the Baltimore democratic convention.

In the world war period Johnson was active in Liberty Bond and Red Cross work.

He espoused the candidacy of William Gibbs McAdoo for president in 1920 and was named delegate at large to the San Francisco democratic convention, serving as chairman of the Texas delegation.

He campaigned for Pat M. Neff in the latter's successful run-off primary election campaign against Joseph Weldon Bailey in 1922 for the governorship.

For more than thirty years

Little of New Currency Is Put Into Circulation

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Though the treasury has had printed $2,000,000,000 of the new Federal Reserve bank notes, on March 16—three days after the bank holiday was ended—only $8,840,997 of the new currency has been put in circulation.

This amount was in addition to $2,631,704 of federal reserve bank notes in circulation the previous day, an amount representing the usual outstanding total for currency of that class.

It has been issued in small amounts for years but whenever the bills came into the treasury they were retired and replaced by federal reserve notes.

Cone Johnson of Tyler was a spectacular figure in Texas politics, and from 1912 until 1917 he was well known in national political circles. He took part in some of the bitterest legislative tests, among them being that known as the Hogg-Clark contest.

Another bitterly fought campaign in which he was a leader was in 1908 when he successfully opposed Joseph Weldon Bailey for the position of delegate-at-large from Texas to the Democratic national convention.

In 1910 Mr. Johnson was the opponent of O. B. Colquitt for governor but was defeated.

Born in Dawsonville, Ga., June 11, 1860, he received his primary education in the public schools. When 18 years old he entered Emory College at Oxford, Ga., but soon left there to attend Peabody Normal College at Nashville, Tenn. In 1880 he was given his degree at the University of Nashville.

Became College Instructor.

He came to Tyler, Texas, and became an instructor in the East Texas University at Tyler. In the meantime he studied law in the office of Col. W. B. Herndon and in 1883 he was admitted to the bar in Tyler. By this time he had gained local fame as an orator and was taking more or less part in local politics. Three years after he became a lawyer.

From the end of his term as state senator until 1908 he was more or less active in state politics and gained the reputation as a fighter. Following his unsuccessful effort in the campaign of 1908 and 1910, he was elected, without opposition, as delegate-at-large to the Democratic national convention in 1912. He took a very active part in the Texas delegation at Baltimore and was a staunch supporter of Woodrow Wilson during the balloting which resulted in Mr. Wilson's administration.

Held Federal Position.

In 1914 he was tendered and accepted the appointment of assistant solicitor for the Department of State. He held this place but a short time when he was made solicitor of the department and as such was the legal advisor of William Jennings Bryan, then secretary of state, on international legal questions. In 1917 he resigned his position in the state department.

Upon his return to his home in Tyler he again took up private practice of law, and paid little attention to politics. He was named a member of the state highway commission by Governor Dan Moody in 1927 and his term expired February 15, this year. He enjoyed good health until the winter of 1922-23. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Marvin Methodist church of Tyler, and at one time was a trustee of Southwestern University at Georgetown, Texas.

BRITISH SUBJECTS HELD BY SOVIETS MUST STAND TRIAL

PROTESTS BRITISH GOVERN- MENT IN ARRESTS IGNOR- ED BY SOVIETS

MOSCOW, March 18.—(AP)—Four British subjects charged with "wrecking activities" in connection with their work on electrical projects in Russia will be subjected to a public trial within a month.

Protests of the British government were ignored by Soviet authorities in making the decision. A government statement said "no pressure or menace" from Great Britain would dissuade it.

Thirty-five other employees of the Russian branch of the British Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical company, all of them native Russians, are also facing trial. (In a similar recent trial of three German engineers and 50 Russian specialists, the Germans, escaped with acquittals after long prosecution but many of the Russians were executed.)

The Russian subjects who will be tried are L. C. Thornton, chief erecting engineer; W. H. McDonald, engineer; John Cushman, engineer and a fitter named Gregory.

Two other British officials of the company also were arrested in raids on their residences and company offices last Saturday night, but were released Tuesday. These were Allan Monkhouse, director of the company, and Charles Norwell. Both praised the Russian secret police for the manner in which they had been treated while imprisoned.

LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—The correspondent for Reuters' (British) news agency at Riga, Latvia, reported today that the arrest in Russia of British employees of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Co. was understood to be closely connected with the building of the Metropolitan-Vickers supplied the steel for the great turbo-generators intended to supply electric power throughout Russia. Six were to have been in operation by the end of last year.

Russian authorities now charge that the blades of the turbines have been corroded, with malicious intent, asserting that since the blades are made of the finest quality rust-proof steel, sand or acid must have been poured into the turbines to cause the alleged corrosion.

The Russians charge that employees of Metropolitan-Vickers who supervised construction of the turbines are guilty of sabotage in behalf of counter-revolutionary organizations.

TRAVIS DISTRICT JUDGE GIVES RULING IN HIGHWAY CASE

FERGUSON APPOINTEE HELD BE INELIGIBLE FOR COM- MISSION MEMBERSHIP

AUSTIN, March 18.—(AP)—Judge J. D. Moore of Travis county district court today held that F. L. Denison of Temple was ineligible to be a member of the Texas highway commission.

Judge Moore simply held, the senate records showed. Denison had not been confirmed by that body.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, who appointed Denison to the place on the commission held by the late Cone Johnson of Tyler, contended Denison did not need a two thirds majority vote of the senate to confirm his appointment.

The senate's consideration of his appointment was in executive session and how the senators voted for and against confirmation never was divulged, although the Governor had requested that information.

James V. Allard, attorney general, filed suit in Judge Moore's court challenging Denison's right to the office. Denison previously had received a commission from the governor and taken the oath of office.

Judge Moore ruled that he could not go behind the senate record in determining Denison's status and that record revealed he had not been confirmed, without reference to a two thirds majority or a simple majority.

The case likely will be appealed to the supreme court.

E. K. Moore was in Kerens Saturday.

Bob Bruner was in Corsicana Saturday from Rural Shade.

MAN FACES TRIAL IN DEATH DANGER IN FALL HOUSTON

HOUSTON, March 20.—(AP)—Whether Miss Ivy Young, one-time stage dancer, fell or was pushed to her death from a seventh-story window of a Houston hotel was a major issue in the murder trial today of H. M. Edwards, aviator and engineer from Reno, Nevada.

The pretty brunette plunged from a window Edwards' room early February 10, after a purported struggle. Investigators learned the couple had quarreled at a night club several hours before and that Miss Young later had followed him to the hotel, where they were registered as man and wife.

It was learned by police that Miss Young was divorced in Reno from her husband, a New Yorker, a short time before her death. She met Edwards, a man of 37, in Reno.

YOUR FACE

You should never attempt any make up at all on your face unless you are an expert at it. To become expert, try making up six to ten different ways, and with as many different shades of rouge and lipstick, before you go forth in public with any artificial coloring on your skin.

I'm assuming you are one of those rare persons who has never used makeup, or one of those other, and fairly common persons who spatters on a bit of rouge and a dab of lipstick, and calls it a finished job. I would suggest that you go to the lowest-price stores and buy the tiny makeup sets they sell—a very bright rouge, a medium and a dark rouge, ten shades of lipstick, in the same three shades, light and dark powder, brown and black eye mascara, and several shades of eye shadow, blue, golden brown, gray, green. Larger stores even go to green and violet powder, for evening wear—try some of these, if your skin is clear and pale.

Now you've a miniature, but complete array of colors. Use first an oily foundation cream—if you've a dry skin, and make up over this. If this is not satisfactory, try the light fluffy vanishing cream which disappears at once into your skin. Try your light powder and the three colors of rouge and later your dark powder and the three rouge shades. If you want to make a thorough business of it, you can take off all the makeup, making a clear state of your face, so to speak, to begin your next experiment. Use oil, and then wipe this off with a cloth wrung from hot water, followed by a cold wet cloth to close the pores.

Unless you can afford to go to an expert, who will make you up and then sell you the proper colors for your type, you'll find this method the best. Even the "expert" is not to be trusted, for she always has a certain line of cosmetics to sell and is naturally interested in using them and no others. Anyhow you are your own best judge. And a dollar covers the cost of this experiment.

RAIL SHARES LENT FIRM APPEARANCE TO MARKET MONDAY

TRADERS, HOWEVER RESUM- ED CAUTION SHOWN DURING RECENT MONTHS

NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—The stock market encountered scattered selling in a quiet session today, and while rails and wet stocks moved a little higher, utilities and miscellaneous industrials receded moderately. The close was irregularly steady. Transfers approximated 300,000 shares.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—Rail shares lent a somewhat firm appearance to the stock market today, but traders again resumed the extreme caution which has characterized their attitude in the time during recent months, and the list market turned dull.

Washington remained the focal point of attention, and rails were evidently stimulated by indications that the new administration was working on its transportation program. Expected passage of the beer measure appeared to have been largely discounted, and the stocks were not much affected. Relief proposals seemed still to exercise some influence over the farm implement shares, which were firm.

Advances around 2 points were registered by Union Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Delaware & Hudson, and Coca Cola, while issues up about 1-2 to 1 point included Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Kennecott, Case, Allied Chemical and Owens Illinois. U. S. Steel and American Telephone were about steady. In the motors, Chrysler receded a fraction. Coughlin Products and United Aircraft sagged about a point. Studebaker sagged 1-4 points to a price of 1-1/2, reflecting announcement of the friendly reorganization.

Further evidences of relaxation in the money market appeared. Call money, which renewed at 4 per cent on Friday, then declined to 3-1/2, renewed at 3-1/2 today, and soon declined to 3.

Curb Market Dull.
NEW YORK, March 20.—(AP)—Dull trading and narrow price changes characterized the curb today.

The market had seemingly settled into a rut after its excursions of last week and white professionals satiated their appetite for speculation. The session became a routine affair. Slight irregularity was occasionally apparent but with turnover greatly reduced in comparison with recent weeks. The mixed trend caused little comment.

Trading interest was well-diversified among the major groups. Utilities were inactive. Coughlin American Gas met enough early selling to put the price down a point. Electric Bond and Share edged a shade higher and then worked up and down in a restricted range.

Oils were dull. Standard of Kentucky displayed some early firmness. The Indiana company's shares stood virtually still.

SEVERAL HUNDRED PROMINENT DOCTORS GATHER IN DALLAS

DALLAS, March 20.—(AP)—Several hundred of the best medical authorities on two continents arrived here today for the fourth congress of the Pan-American Medical Association which begins tomorrow.

Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas, president of the congress, was on hand to welcome some of the leading English and Spanish speaking physicians from the two Americas.

Dr. Charles Mayo led a delegation which arrived from Rochester, Minn., just ahead of other delegates from New York. The latter group included Congressman Eugene D. Joseph, Jordan Eiler and his wife, who formerly was Artemisa Calles, youngest daughter of Plutarco E. Calles, former president of Mexico; Dr. Roberto Gutierrez, Dr. Julio Valenzuela, Dr. John Duff and Dr. Foster Kennedy.

President Sends Message.
DALLAS, March 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today sent the following telegram from the White House to Dr. John O. McReynolds, president of the Pan-American Medical Congress:

"I extend to you and your fellow members of the Pan-American Medical Congress on behalf of the government cordial greetings on the opening of the fourth congress the first to be held in an English speaking country.

"The medical profession is deeply interested in the accomplishments of the world's medicine, and so much to the health and welfare of the nation, to say nothing of the promotion of friendly relations and mutual understanding between the United States and her sister republics of Latin America.

"I am confident that you will find a most hearty welcome by the medical profession, and an earnest desire to co-operate with you in every way in furthering the high object of the congress. I wish the members of the Fourth Congress every success in their great undertaking."

PRORATION ORDER RAIL COMMISSION HELD BE INVALID

TEXAS PRORATION MATTER AGAIN RULED ON BY THREE- JUDGE FEDERAL COURT

TYLER, March 17.—(P)—A three-judge federal court decision filed here today held invalid previous proration orders under which the Texas state railroad commission limited production in the vast East Texas oil field to a daily total of 290,000 barrels. The commission some days ago instituted a new order, permitting a total production of 400,000 barrels daily.

The new order was not affected by the decision at least not unless it later should be attacked in the courts and found by them to embody the same faults found in the 290,000-barrel regulation.

The decision was returned in the case of the Peoples Petroleum Producers, Inc., one of a group of suits, all seeking injunction to restrain enforcement of the old order, which was tried as an omnibus proceeding before the three-judge court sitting at Houston last January.

The court in its opinion held that the 290,000-barrel regulation was "more drastic" than an order permitting production of 375,000 barrels which had been struck down some months before. The 290,000-barrel regulation which limited individual wells in the field to a minimum daily production of 28 barrels and a maximum of 31 barrels—was struck down chiefly because the court found it was not a fair method of allocating the production as between the various wells.

"This order," said the court, "strips the best properties down to the level of the worst, and takes from one owner and gives to another."

Manifiestly Unfair.

"In addition to the manifest unfairness of the order in the light of evidence that some parts of the field can (potentially) produce 20 to 40 times that of others, it was the uncontradicted testimony of Mr. Buck (E. O. Buck railroad commission geologist-engineer), a witness for the defendants, that the present order did not fairly distribute the allowable and in substance that the proper way to allocate the field was to make a difference between the best and the worst part of it by basing the allocation of such allowable on producing abilities of the wells, thus effecting a fair distribution."

"We have considered and rejected as wholly without merit the point made by the defendants (the commission) that their rule violates provisions of the constitution which prohibit a given proration order to be made for hearing. It is generally accepted that a regulatory body may issue such orders and, by provision for appeal, that the hearing is the point at which the order is to be maintained or modified. It is as apparent as the sun that the proration order is to be maintained or modified by the hearing."

March 17.—(P)—Char-290,000 barrel order railroad commission, which was held invalid by a three-judge federal court decision filed here today and for the plaintiffs in the case of Peoples Petroleum Producers, Inc., Lon A. Smith, et al.

The "one enjoined" was the order restraining production of the field to 290,000 barrels which previously had been held invalid by a former three-judge court last year.

The decision also found for the plaintiff in the Rowan and Nichols case, in which indecision of the acreage fixed in the allowable was described as an "interesting question" which was not necessary to pass upon in view of the fact that the order had been held "generally invalid."

The latter decision quoted the ruling in the Peoples Petroleum case, pointing out, however, that "plaintiff brought its bill complaining not of the allowable fixed by the commission but of the method of its allocation" in which regard the judges held that in view of the fact that the order was held "generally invalid" and an injunction was authorized against it, it was unnecessary for the court to discuss or decide the "interesting questions" which this case raises as to the validity of the marginal well statute, limit one owner to one well on ten acres (as by amended order since this suit was filed is now allowed) while permitting other operators in the same field to drill and produce from one well to one, two, three or five acres or whether, on allocation reasonable and fairness require that the acreage basis as well as the potential of the well be taken into consideration."

Trial in Houston

Trial of a consolidated case attacking the Texas railroad commission's orders limiting production in the East Texas oil field to a minimum of 28 barrels per day and a maximum of 31 barrels was concluded Jan. 31 before a three-judge federal court at Houston, presided over by Circuit Judge J. C. Hutchins. Thirty-seven suits seeking injunction against the commission's orders were heard—consolidated, for purposes of the trial, into an omnibus action. It was agreed upon completion of the hearing, that various other suits, attacking the commission's pipeline and refinery regulations in the field would stand or fall essentially on the record made in the proration case, save for the fact counsel for both sides was granted permission to submit briefs and affidavits in the former cases.

The trial developed essentially the same fact testimony that had been heard so often before in the courts of the state. The complainants contended the orders were discriminatory, arbitrary and discriminatory in that the provision in the order allocating the

ROUGH PATH AHEAD OF FARM RELIEF BILL; SOME SENATORS DISLIKE CONTINUED SPEED

BY ROY F. HENDRICKSON

Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(P)—President Roosevelt's bond prescription for the nation's agricultural ills was bound today up a rougher road than any of the three previous proposals for emergency action routed to congress in the last eight days.

The others, now that beer is about through, appear to have been triple plays, white house to congress to the law books. The farm program faces troubles midway along that path in the senate where there were signs of a rebellion in Democratic ranks.

A possibility existed that the house would pass the bill before the end of the day and that its latest would complete action before adjournment Saturday. Agriculture committee was set for quick consideration of the measure.

There was a scattered undercurrent of hostility toward the measure. Senators Russell of Georgia and Long of Louisiana indicated dislike for the speed with which the senate is acting on the bill. The measure is being "rubber-stamped" procedure, they said.

Meanwhile, representatives of processors hurriedly analyzed the long and complicated bill, some of them definitely committed to its speedy enactment. Others were stilled by the President's plea in his special message to congress yesterday for a "fair trial" of the measure.

Processors to Fight.

Some processors were particularly interested in a provision that would let Secretary Wallace require all to be licensed, whether they handled commodities named in the bill or competing products. This would permit assessment of $1,000 a day fines against those who operated without licenses.

Wallace, however, indicated he did not intend to use this unless three barrel spread—between the 28 barrel minimum and the 31 barrel maximum—upon the basis of bottom hole pressure in the various wells did not operate to cure the proration defects themselves of the fatal defects the three-judge court had found in previous proration orders.

Attack Constitutionality.

Complainants, in attorneys' arguments, likewise attacked the constitutionality of the "market demand" statute upon which the 28-31 barrel order were based, contending the act was a "price fixing" measure.

The commission, on the other hand, sought to show its orders were fair and reasonable and necessary for the preservation of common rights in the field. The orders, they asserted, were designed to prevent physical damage to the field, in that they were drawn to prevent a too rapid withdrawal of oil and a consequent loss in ultimate production through uneven water intrusion.

Like wise was argued in half of the commission that its orders carried the presumption of reasonableness and validity, and could not be overturned by the courts unless they were found "wholly unreasonable."

Not Price-Fixing Measure.

In defending the "market demand" statute—which permitted the commission to consider the question of market demand for oil in making up its schedules for allowable production in the fields of the state—counsel for the state asserted the act was in no sense a price-fixing measure, and argued the commission figured market demand only in the sense of determining what market demand there was for oil from the field, without respect to what price might be paid.

There was testimony in the case to the effect that the commission never had considered price in its proration schedules, but if price improved as a consequence of proration enforcement, that fact was brought about as an incident only, and was not by design of the commission.

Effect of Decision.

AUSTIN, March 17.—(P)—Members of the attorney general's department said today that they would not know definitely the effect of the latest federal court decision relative to oil proration until they had opportunity to study a copy of the opinion.

Willis E. Gresham, assistant attorney general, said he understood that the court held invalid the railroad commission's 290,000 barprocessors failed to co-operate willingly.

The program would place in the hands of Secretary Wallace sweeping powers to deal with the problems of low prices and surplus production. The program has flexibility, empowering Wallace to employ parts or all of several plans, including the Smith cotton method, the principles of the federal loan plan, the plan of lands to retire them from production and trade agreements.

A processors' tax is the chief source of revenue proposed to provide funds to finance the program. From it payments in the form of rentals or benefits or both could be paid to farmers in return for agreements to curtail production.

The Smith option plan would be applicable to cotton planters, its purpose being to buy up supplies of cotton in which the government now has a financial interest and to give growers options on these in return for production cuts.

Restoration of farm prices to the 1909-1914 pre-war level is the goal. If and when that goal has been attained the plan "would go out of operation. The processors tax levied in the maximum amount would be in an amount sufficient to bring the price of the commodity back to the pre-war level and current market demand prices.

The President asserted that the measure "offers great promise of good results," adding:

"I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path, but I tell you with equal frankness that it is an unprecedented demand calls for new means to rescue agriculture."

"If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped for results I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you," he said.

HAMILTON JURY IN HILLSBORO IS DISMISSED TODAY

HILLSBORO, March 20.—(P)—

Judge W. L. Wray today dismissed the jury which for three days has been considering the case of Raymond Hamilton, tried on a charge of murder for the slaying of John Bucher, filling station and store operator, here last April.

The trial began a week ago and four days were taken up with testimony and attorney's arguments. The defense claimed Hamilton was in Michigan when Bucher was shot to death, and introduced several witnesses to support its contention.

Mrs. Bucher, testifying for the state, identified Hamilton as one of the two men who appeared at the store to buy guitar strings. After the purchase was wrapped, one of the men asked for change for a $10 bill. While Mrs. Bucher was opening the safe, a shot was fired behind her back and her husband fell, mortally wounded. She testified the shot was fired from where Hamilton had stood.

rel order which was in effect until a few days ago. The field now is being prorated under a new order which allows production of 400,000 barrels daily from the field.

Gresham stated he had been informed that the court declared the order void because the method of apportionment of the field allowable among wells was unfair. The order prorated the field almost entirely on a per well basis.

ZANGARA

With his feet not quite touching the floor and his head completely covered, he then leaned back in the chair and relaxed to await the shocks.

"All Right, Joe."

One of the guards who fixed the electrode stepped back and said in a quiet voice, "All right, Joe."

With that signal, Sheriff Dan Hardie of Dade county (Miami) walked behind the chair and threw the switch that sent 2,300 volts through Zangara's body at 9:15.

The Daily Sun Pattern Department, 243 West 17th Street, New York City.

His hands clenched the chair. The current was turned off after three minutes and Zangara's body relaxed, slumping forward. Guards hastily released the straps about his arms and physicians stepped forward to make their examination. He was officially pronounced dead at 9:27 a. m., Eastern Standard time.

A heavy rain beat on the flat roof of the prison building at the hour of execution. National Guardsmen with machine guns occupied strategic locations and kept close watch on all who approached.

Autopsy Ordered.

An autopsy was ordered immediately after the electrocution. Dr. Ralph N. Green of Jacksonville, former chief of the state hospital for the insane; R. R. Killinger of Jacksonville, Duval county medical officer; C. D. Whitaker, prison physician and J. J. Kindred, New York City, were named to make the examination with particular attention to the brain and stomach.

The physicians who performed the autopsy announced they found the assassin's brain "perfectly normal" on gross examination.

The report said:

"Having completed an autopsy, we found his (Zangara's) brain perfectly normal on gross examination."

"A microscopic examination will be made later."

"Zangara had a chronically diseased gall-bladder which had advanced to the stage of chronic inflammation. He was, however, a healthy, well nourished individual."

"Proper Understanding."

"Zangara's conduct during his last moments in the execution chamber indicated clearly he had a proper understanding of his surroundings and realized fully the nature of the punishment about to be meted out to him as evidenced by his verbal expressions and demeanor."

"In our opinion this man as regarded having been sane and also regarded medically as criminally responsible for the crime for which he was executed."

The autopsy was made by Drs. Ralph N. Greene, former chief of staff of the State Hospital for the Insane; R. R. Killinger, Duval county medical officer; C. D. Whitaker, prison physician, and J. J. Kindred, New York City.

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo, who also is head of the prison bureau, was among those who witnessed the execution.

Refuses Minister.

Mayo and Chapman went to Zangara just before the execution and asked him if he wanted a minister or priest.

Throwing his hands into the air, Zangara replied: "No, I do not want a minister. There no God. It's all lies."

On the insistence of Mayo and Chapman, however, Rev. L. Sheffield, prison chaplain, entered the death cell and made a brief prayer.

"That's your business?" demanded Zangara of the minister. Told that Sheffield was a minister, Zangara again threw up his hands, shouting:

"Get out of here. I do not want no minister. I do not want no minister. Sheffield began reading the 14th chapter of John's gospel."

Zangara interrupted the minister with more shouting and finally quelled, listening to the reading.

Then, suddenly, the assassin broke into another uproar which was ended by the death march.

Personal Requests.

Superintendent Chapman said he had examined the stack of papers which Zangara handed to him in the execution room, saying it was his "book." The paper contain personal requests to Chapman, the superintendent said, and will not be made public.

In a conversation with Zangara before the execution this morning, Commissioner Mayo asked the condemned man if he was a member of any gang.

"No," Zangara replied. "And I have no friends. It was idea of my own."

Mayo asked the man if he was sorry he killed Mayor Cermak and Zangara again replied "No."

Then Mayo asked if Zangara did not regret shooting and wounding Mrs. Joe H. Gill, of Miami, another of the victims who still is in a Miami hospital.

"No," Zangara said, "she had no business getting in the way of the bullet."

Mayo said he believed Zangara's worst punishment since his arrest in Miami was the refusal of his request that a photographer be permitted to take pictures of the execution. This request, Mayo said, was the only one the condemned man made while awaiting execution.

There was no immediate announcement as to what would be done with Zangara's body. Several medical schools and clinics had asked that the body be given to them for scientific research but

A white man entered a plea of guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace and was fined $50 and costs by Judge Jordan. The man was alleged to have made insulting remarks to a woman Sunday. The defendant was released from jail Sunday morning after serving out a fine for affray, it was reported.

Gov. Dave Sholtz did not say what would be done about these requests.

Zangara had no known relatives in the United States. He said his father lived near the town of Ferruzzano, Calabria, Italy. He gave his age as in the early thirties. He was a naturalized citizen of the United States.

Thousands See Shooting.

Thousands witnessed the incident that cost Mayor Cermak his life. A huge crowd was assembled at Bayfront Park the night of February 15 in a public reception for Mr. Roosevelt, then president-elect. Cheers were still echoing when Zangara leaped to a chair and leveled a pistol he bought at a pawnshop for $7.50.

As he started to fire, a bystander, Mrs. W. F. Gross of Cross of arms and the bullets sprayed wild. Mayor Cermak, Miss Joe H. Gill of Miami, William Sinnott of New York, Miss Margaret Krus of Newark, N. J., and Russell Caldwell, of Coconut Grove, Fla., all wounded.

Zangara's clothes were almost stripped from his body as police hurried him to jail. He explained he had identified Mr. Roosevelt from a newspaper clipping and desired to kill him because he hated all government, presidents and kings. Zangara said he had "always been poor" and that his stomach "hurt all time" so he wanted the money to know suffering.

He pleaded guilty to charges of attempting to kill President-elect Roosevelt and assault with attempt to kill Miss Krus, Sinnott and Caldwell, the least seriously wounded of his victims. As sentence of 30 years in prison was pronounced in those cases, he shouted, "How much you give me? Don't be stingy, make it a hundred years!"

Meanwhile, Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Gill remained in a critical condition. As Mrs. Gill began to recover, the Chicago mayor weakened following complication after complication and, in spite of every medical attention, died March 3.

That very day, the grand jury was recalled and Zangara was indicted for murder. Zangara, informed of Mayor Cermak's death, said, "Me no care, it was fault of the woman who hit my arm."

March 9 he pleaded guilty to first degree murder and the next day Judge Uly Thompson sentenced him to electrocution.

There was little moved when informed that night of his impending execution. His last day was spent mostly in his bunk. He had chicken for dinner at his own request.

Zangara was a bricklayer in Hackensack, N. J., before he turned assassin.

Mrs. Gill Not Out of Danger.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(P)—As Giuseppe Zangara paid with his life at Raiford state farm today for the assassination of Mayor Antonio J. Cermak of Chicago, Mrs. Joe H. Gill, another of the five bullet victims in his plot to kill President-elect Roosevelt, was still in a serious condition in Jackson Memorial Hospital here.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Gill's condition was listed as "serious" but there was no indication that she would not be sufficiently recovered to go to her home soon.

Sick and Convalescent.

Mrs. Fitz Kerner remains in a critical condition in the Navarro Clinic, where she has been since an automobile accident some time ago.

Mrs. Walter Hamilton, of the White Chapel community, underwent the latest of her operations at Navarro Clinic Sunday, and was reported doing as well as could be expected Monday afternoon.

Gurthel Lenox is recovering from an attack of flu but it will be several days before she is again able to go to school.

TROTZKY FORESEES AMERICA AS MASTER OF WORLD CAPITAL BUT UNHAPPY WORLD TO RULE

BY PRISCILLA RING

Associated Press Staff Cor.

(Copy) 1933, By The A. P.)

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 17.—(P)—The United States will emerge from the present crisis more the master of world capital than ever, believes Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionary leader, but he foresees no happy world for the master to command.

From his place of exile on Prinkipo Island, near here, whence he incessantly watches world movements, Trotsky gave the Associated Press his prophecy for America.

"You ask my opinion of the 'dollar crisis,' he said in French. 'Considered technically, this crisis will soon be over. From the broader aspect the question needs a serious examination beyond the scope of an interview.'

"Briefly, I can say that since 1917 I often affirmed that world capital would develop under the increasing hegemony of the United States, especially under the hegemony of the dollar over the British sterling. American capitalism's four years' crisis and especially the bank crisis of 1931 and 1933, though important in themselves, do not check American capital's increasing hegemony but rather are part of that increase."

"America's excessive and precipitate growth gave the country's economic structure a mixed character—inherences from the backward state, with the mingling of man strength's greatest conquests. The banking system especially evinces this contradiction."

"American capital become a world factor, nevertheless, and it leans on a scattered system of provincial banks, recalling the epoch of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' has the power to fix new regulato the president shortly after it was received from Capital Hill and without further ado Mr. Roosevelt signed it.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—(P)—Vice-President Garner early this afternoon signed the immense economy bill, and President Roosevelt signed it last week. Garner's signing had to be deferred over the week-end because of the senate recess.

Much was ready for starting the huge savings, with some orders drawn up and others awaiting final approval.

In preparation for the bill's enactment, the veterans administration last week ordered its field stations to discontinue the awards in veterans' cases. It also suspended all admissions to veteran's homes and hospitals except those of emergency nature.

Under the bill, the President of the United States has the power to fix new regula-

When the organism weakens from lack of nourishment, all its faults and sickness come to the surface.

"When America's economic organism weakened under the world crisis influence, the obsolete character of its banking system was sharply revealed. The result of the two bank crises will undoubtedly be a grandiose centralization of the banking system ultimately, merely reinforcing United States financial hegemony."

The building was owned by Mrs. Hattie Malloy, and loss was estimated at $1,000 with $3,000 insurance.

Business District Fire Sunday Night Does $1800 Damage

Except for men permanently disabled, hospital and domiciliary care will be limited to those whose ailments were actually caused by war service. Pensions for civil war or previous service will be cut ten per cent flat. Only those emergency officers who saw service and were injured during the actual World War period will be allowed further retirement pay.

All provisions of existing law under which ailments are presumed to be of war origin if developed within so many years after the war, are out.
